Red Berliners Again Storm City Building

Comms Demand Present Panel Step Down To 'Action Committee'

BERLIN, Aug. 27—A crowd of several thousand, shouting Communist demonstrators again invaded Berlin's City Hall today after forcing the municipal assembly to adjourn indefinitely.

As soon as the pro-Western assembly majority had left the council chamber, the Communist mob swarmed into the building, took over the speakers' platform and heard their leaders demand an "action committee" to run Berlin.

Ten minutes earlier, Dr. Otto Suhr, Social Democratic chairman of the assembly, adjourned the meeting indefinitely because of the menacing crowd which had converged on the building.

For an hour and a half the demonstrators occupied the city hall and milled around outside. They departed, singing Communist songs, only after Karl Maron, pro-Soviet German leader told them ominously: "The Berlin city administration is finished. It's up to you now."

WITHIN the city hall, scattered clashes and scuffling between Communists and deputies broke out.

However, what might have developed into a serious street fight was averted when assembly officials vetoed a request from anti-Communist trade unions to send a counter-demonstration to disperse the pro-Soviet factions.

The Communist mob stormed past the pro-Soviet police guards of Police Chief Paul Markgraf, just as they did yesterday. Members of the Communist youth group conspicuously occupied chairs reserved for Western sector liaison officers.

Assembly elders went into secret session to consider the serious situation brought about by the Communist efforts to prevent the assembly from sitting.

Acting Mayor Ferdinand Friedensburg, whom the demonstrators demanded to see, later told newsmen:

"The magistrat (assembly) won't capitulate before the demonstrators who constitute only a minority. Steps will be taken so that the Berlin majority will be expressed in a stronger way."

Friedensburg said he had ordered the police not to allow any demonstrators into the city hall, but that his order had gone unheeded.

THREE leading pro-Russian Germans, Maron Karl Litke, Berlin co-chairman of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Unity Party (SED); and Herman Schlimme, Communist trade union head, all spoke.

They demanded change in the (Continued on Page Two)

County Youths Leave For Big Junior Olympiad

"OK, fellas, pile into the cars and we're off."

No second invitation was needed Friday morning when the 20 man Pickaway County Junior Olympics team "piled in" and departed for the Baldwin-Wallace college campus, near Cleveland where they are to participate in the third annual National Junior Olympiad Saturday.

Final arrangements for the group was made at a Circleville Booster Club meeting in Memorial Hall Thursday evening. Plans called for the youngsters to depart early Friday morning, arrive at the college campus about 3 p. m. and have a practice before the big meet Saturday.

Circleville followers will be able to hear a short resume over American Broadcasting Co. outlets at 3:45 p. m. Saturday.

Cooke Metzger was elected captain of the squad at the Thursday meeting. Metzger, of Williamsport, topped three first places in the local Junior Olympics runoffs.

Motorbike Ban Being Demanded

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—A new proposal to ban motorbikes from both the streets of Columbus and the outside highways was advanced today by City Safety Director C. C. Cole.

Terming the bikes "one of the worst death traps ever placed on public streets," Cole turned to the parents with a plea that they deny their children use of the bikes.

More than 40 accidents involving motorbikes have been reported in Columbus thus far in 1948. In two cases the bike riders died.

Hiss, Chambers Again Linked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—Congressional spy probes today ordered investigation of new information disclosed by The Baltimore News-Post linking the names of Alger Hiss and his accuser, Whittaker Chambers.

The House Un-American Activities Committee said it would delve thoroughly into the information, which revealed that in the mid-1930s both Hiss and Chambers showed interest in a secluded rural property near Westminster, Md.

Rep. Mundt, (R) S. D., requested The News-Post to furnish the committee with photographic copies of correspondence and contracts.

The newspaper said the data "bears out in black and white that Hiss and Chambers were dealing for the same place at about the same time."

Committee members pointed out that the link, if substantiated, is important in the attempt to determine whether Hiss or Chambers is guilty of perjury.

Chillicothe Grabs New 'Surcharge'

CHILLICOTHE, Aug. 27—The 4.4 percent "surcharge" rate increase put into effect on electric bills by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., was ordered impounded today by Judge Kenneth C. Stevens.

A similar court ruling in Columbus resulted in impoundment until the rate question is settled.

GRAND RULER of Negro Elks, J. Finley Wilson of Washington, manifests some sort of emotion as he greets a sour-faced Henry Wallace, Progressive party candidate for president, at the grand lodge's convention in Cincinnati. Wallace told the Elks that "Jim Crow is the offspring of profit-mad tycoons," that he would carry his civil rights fight to the South "very shortly." Wallace said he was "not a Communist, never was a Communist, and never expected to be one."

2,500 Men To Register For Draft

Pickaway Signup To Start Monday

Registration of Pickaway County's estimated 2,500 eligible men for this nation's first peacetime draft will begin at 8 a. m. Monday with 25-year-olds on the second floor of the courthouse.

Within the next 19 days until Sept. 18, the county's newly-formed draft board will sign up the remaining age groups down to men 18 years of age, or those born before Sept. 19, 1930.

Formal organization of Pickaway County's draft board, the only one to serve this county, was completed at a meeting Tuesday night of local officials. The state has tagged the board as No. 98.

Emmett F. Morgan of Circleville was elected chairman of the board. Other members are Harold J. Bowers of Ashville and Harry Puffinbarger of Williamsport.

Betty M. Miner of Circleville, was selected by the group as full time clerk of the board. Before this appointment, she had been employed in the clerical department of a local milling firm.

RECOMMENDATIONS of draft board members were made to Ohio Governor Herbert by Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff, Probate Judge Sterling M. Lamb and County Auditor Fred L. Tipton.

It was pointed out by draft officials here that with the exception of Miss Miner, all other work will be done on a voluntary basis. The board will maintain (Continued on Page Two)

Herald Not Tied To Solicitation

Salesmen for a small publication in Columbus are soliciting advertising in Circleville. Some of the merchants solicited are under the impression that the project is in connection with The Circleville Herald. This is untrue.

The Herald management is not cooperating with the Columbus concern and, until the local solicitation got under way, was unaware of the existence of such a publication.

Blast Reported

AMMAN, Aug. 27—Reports reaching this Trans-Jordan capital, said today that Jerusalem's electric power station was blown up last night. The accounts attributed the deed to Arab irregulars.

SCENE OF A CRITICAL SITUATION just a few days ago, long lines of U. S. Military Police and jeeps are drawn across Stresemann Strasse, which leads to Berlin's Potsdamer Platz. There Americans were snatched by Russians, only to be later released, and Western Berlin police were kidnapped. Most recent dispatches indicate an easing of tension through negotiations between East and West factors, initiated by Gen. Lucius Clay, American military governor. Withdrawal of all troops from the center of the city is planned.

Cost Of Living Curve Continues Up, Up And Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—Commodity prices continued their upward march today and there was little or no prospect of immediate relief.

Latest statistical evidence of the high cost of living came from the Labor department where it was reported that wholesale prices again jumped up to the postwar peak established three weeks ago.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said that 900 wholesale commodities were selling at the end of last week 169.2 percent above the 1926 average.

This was 1 percent higher than the figure established the previous week and it equaled the all-time high set during the seven days ending Aug. 7. The (Continued on Page Two)

Argument Ends In Tragedy

During a quarrel with her husband over his drinking habits, Mrs. Doris Irene Woods, 26, of near Cisco, mother of five children, died Thursday night of a broken neck when she leaped from a speeding auto.

She was removed in a Kirkpatrick and Son ambulance to the office of Dr. N. F. Rife, Fayette County coroner, where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mrs. Woods and her husband, Floyd, were enroute home about 9:40 p. m. on the Minshall road from the Crites Canning Co. in New Holland, where they are employed, when she became enraged during the argument.

The husband said she threw open the car door and jumped to the pavement. Woods said he stopped the car, backed up and found her unconscious on the road. He summoned the aid of Red Mitchell, a nearby farmer, by blowing his auto horn.

MITCHELL returned home in a jeep and called for an ambulance. Mrs. Woods died enroute to the physician's office in Washington, C. H.

Ashville Seeks One-Mill Levy

Ashville village council Friday lodged a petition with Pickaway County board of election for a one-mill tax levy for five years to be placed on the November ballot.

The one-mill levy on each one dollar of property valuation would amount to 10 cents on each $100 of taxable property.

In the petition it was declared additional money was needed by the village to construct sewers on Jefferson avenue, sewers and water main extensions in East Lawn Addition and other general improvements.

WILDWOOD CREST, N. J., Aug. 27—Being a police chief is a dog's life at times.

Especially so for Wildwood Crest's Chief Everett Murray who ordered the borough dog catcher to pick up all stray animals.

The chief was somewhat embarrassed when William Fearnley, the dog catcher, brought in Murray's white collie. The chief was issued a summons and will appear in recorder's court Sunday.

Court Street Parking Ban Due Here Next Week

No parking will be permitted on Circleville's Court street next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday between the south corporation limits and Pleasant street to facilitate completion of the resurfacing job.

Workmen for the Decker Construction Co. of Columbus, Friday finished paving the first coat layer of concrete-asphalt. Work of laying the finishing top coat began Friday afternoon at the south end of the project.

The no parking restriction next week holds good from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. on each of the three days when employees will be busy in the main part of the city, Service Director Joseph Rooney said.

Since Monday, a fleet of trucks hauling the black top from Columbus has maintained a high-gear shuttle run between the two terminals. On the average, 650 tons of the hot-mix has been transported each day, Rooney declared.

WHEN EACH truck with its 12-ton load leaves Columbus, the asphalt is heated to between 275 and 280 degrees. It lays best from the spreader at about 270 degrees, officials disclosed.

Unless the truck breaks down enroute from Columbus, the mix does not lose more than five degrees of heat before it arrives in Circleville. In event of a breakdown, the truck must return to reheat the load.

Each truck carrying the hot-mix is well insulated to maintain a steady degree and prevent the material from cooling before it reaches the spreader hopper.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27—Curiosity may have killed the cat, but it didn't even scratch five-year-old Jack Berton and his sister, Edith, 7.

The children immediately were taken to Glenville hospital where a quick examination showed that they were unhurt.

The adventurers were standing on the wall to look over the fence around the swimming pool, according to witnesses. They fell to the ground when Jack lost his balance and tugged his sister along with him.

Coming Rains To Make It Worse

BULLETIN

At about 1:30 p. m. Friday, the official thermometer in Circleville sizzled up to 101.

No relief from the broiling heat was in sight Friday as the continuing heat wave claimed at least one life and hospitalized several others in Ohio.

Weather Bureau officials said temperatures would remain around the 100-degree mark during Friday's peak.

Discomfort, suffering and death continued to accompany the scorching hot weather, mainly because of the high humidity, reaching up to 80 percent in some areas.

At least 12 deaths were attributed in the U. S. to the heat Thursday. They included three in Philadelphia, four in Chicago, two in New York City and one each in Rochester, N. Y., Cleveland and Glandora, N. J.

In the midst which has been sweltering throughout the week, at least 12 persons died from the heat in the last five days. In Chicago alone, firemen's inhalator squads have revived 90 persons, most of whom were overcome by heat, since the hot spell began last Sunday.

FRIDAY's heat belt extended from the Dakotas, Iowa, Missouri and Arkansas eastward to the Atlantic coast and from the Canadian border southward to Northern Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

The hottest spots in the nation Thursday were Yuma, Ariz., and Blythe, Cal., where the temperature reached 108 degrees, but (Continued on Page Two)

Water Officials Issue New Plea For Conservation

While most of Circleville's citizenry eyed the mounting thermometer and reached for that "long, cool one" Friday, a few watched, with increasing alarm, the drop in the city's water pressure.

Two of the most concerned water-watchers were Ervin Leist, manager of the city's water system, and Talmer Wise, Circleville fire chief.

Leist issued an appeal Friday for water conservation — "Don't waste water. Although water is one of the cheapest commodities for sale, and usually the most plentiful, Circleville's water supply is now at a dangerously low level."

Wise also had his warnings about conserving water. "Unless the supply is built up, the fire department will have to form a bucket brigade at any big fire. The pressure we now have wouldn't shoot a stream over a one-story house."

Wise backed up his claim by pointing at the Thursday record of pressure, kept in the department's office.

At 7 a. m. Thursday the pressure was high enough to support a goodly stream of water, the record showing a solid 52 pounds of pressure. However, at (Continued on Page Two)

Mercury Marks High Of 99 Here

But it felt like much more, many a brow-wiping citizen claimed.

Charles Carter, watchman of the local official thermometer, said the high was 99.

Carter, after a thorough search of official records, said records showed that in June, 1940, the high was an even 100. In August, 1944, the mercury edged upward to 102.

"Now, when I worked in harvest fields when I was a boy," Carter (and many another recaller of the good old days) exclaimed, "I know darn well it was a lot hotter than 102."

But he admitted those high readings were taken on chewing tobacco signs and were subject to the toll of years on the memory.

In contrast, near-freezing weather was reported from Colorado. Alamosa was shivering at 33 degrees, and Frazier and Leadville had only 35. Big Piney, Wyo., reported 42 degrees at midnight, but this was not regarded as unusual.

THE HOT SPELL, which has held the eastern half of the nation in its grip the last five days, was expected to continue unabated over the weekend.

The Weather Bureau forecast some showers for the west part of the state and scattered showers and thunderstorms Saturday.

Forecasters said, however, that the rainfall would not break the spell and would most likely add to the discomfort by increasing the moisture in the air.

They reported there were 8.1 grains of moisture per cubic foot at 10:30 a. m. Friday, very close to the saturation point, although the humidity reading actually was lower than at the same time Thursday.

Cincinnati had a scorching 98.9, the highest mark of the year and all-time high for the date. Columbus had a 98 and both cities requested residents to use water sparingly.

Cleveland and East Liverpool followed the heat parade with 97's.

Lack of rainfall also posed a threat to farmers in the state as the searing sun parched the countryside.

The Weather Bureau's five-day outlook also held discouraging news. It follows:

"Temperatures will average six to eight degrees above normal. Not quite so hot Saturday but hot again by Monday. Scattered showers Saturday and again Tuesday or Wednesday. Total rainfall about 1/4 inch."

High and low temperatures at various points for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. Friday were:

Canton 95-72; Chesapeake 100-66; Cincinnati 98-69; Circleville 99-69; Cleveland 97-73; Columbus 98-71; Dayton 96-72; East Liverpool 97-66; Findlay 96-70; Mansfield 94-70; Parkersburg, W. Va., 95-68; Perry 91-71; Toledo 96-71; Wheeling, W. Va., 95-70; Youngstown 95-70; and Zanesville 91-65.

Leist, who is harried daily by the fire chief and other interested parties, says "we just don't have the water. Blame it on the increased demand, hot weather or sunspots, but the water is still absent."

"Try to conserve through the next week or so until the temperature slackens," he added. "Sprinkling lawns is nice for the grass and makes the yard attractive, but how would that yard look with a charred house on it?"

Leist also said that in the event Circleville water customers should happen to notice a discoloration in the water to pay little heed to it, since it is not in the least harmful. It is caused by the low water stage.

Retail Trade Still Goes Up Despite Tax Cut

Sales tax receipts from Pickaway County vendors for the week ending Aug. 14, showed a minor increase over the same period of last year, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported.

His weekly release said a total of $3,813.10 was received during that week compared to $3,461.43 for the corresponding week of 1947. He said the low bracket cutoff, which cancels taxes on purchases up to 41 cents, has failed to show any effect here.

Total sales tax collections to date amounted to $135,593.16, more than a $20,000 increase over total collections of the seven and one-half month period of last year.

Ebright said the total collections last year amounted to $115,521.23.

Balance in the state treasury at the close of Aug. 20 was $275,924,396.88 with expenditures totalling $12,544,671.49, the state treasurer reported.

Youths Booked For Hearing In Juvenile Court

Hearing will be held Monday in Pickaway County juvenile court for two Circleville youths captured by police Wednesday night in a southeast warehouse when officers bombarded them with six teargas shells.

Probation Officer John Kerns said apprehension of the boys, aged 14 and 15, closes the book on two burglaries and a truck theft committed within the last two weeks.

The two juveniles reportedly admitted burglarizing the Western Auto Associate store on West Main street Monday night of $200 worth of firearms, ammunition, knives and watches, most of which has been recovered.

Kerns said they also admitted breaking into the Pickaway Grain Co., Sunday night and stealing candy and peanuts; and the theft of an Ohio Fuel and Gas Co. truck last week which was found wrecked on Route 22.

The 15-year-old boy, who was on probation from Franklin County, now is regarded a case to be handled by local authorities, Kerns said. On his record are armed robbery and other burglaries.

Police Chief William F. McCrady said the younger suspect has a record in the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster where he was sent from Pickaway County.

CHAMBERS, reformed Communist and now a $25,000-a-year Time Magazine editor, testified that he and Hiss were fellow Communists and close friends.

The News-Post story said Chambers finally acquired the farm property after Hiss had gone so far as to make a down payment on it, later apparently losing interest in the deal.

The Baltimore newspaper's account of the strange circumstances emphasized that Chambers, in dealing for the property, used his own name.

The committee assigned Donald Appel, an investigator, to investigate.

Meanwhile, in the continuing Communist espionage investigation, handwriting experts were called in as the inquiry was widened to include 20 former members of the National Labor Relations Board.

Rep. McDowell, (R) Pa., said the experts would be called to determine whether a William Rosen of Washington, D. C., was the man who received a 1929 car which Hiss is accused of having turned over to the Communist Party.

Cost Of Living Curve Continues Up, Up And Up

GOVERNMENT officials, however, termed the boost an indication of a "fluctuating" market and said it would not have too much effect on the overall inflation picture.

Average farm prices increase .3 percent but food costs dropped .4 percent below the previous week's figure.

Most grains and some livestock prices were up, corn down and "moderately" lower prices were reported for butter and cheese. Fresh pork prices were lower but cured pork and dressed poultry quotations were slightly higher.

BLS also said there were price increases on several types of shoes, wool suits and automobiles as a result of higher production costs.

Building materials and house-furnishing goods were reported unchanged at 202.0 percent and 146.8 percent, respectively.

Lights from an oncoming automobile blinded Woodward and he rammed the front end of the parked vehicle, police said.

Mercury Marks High Of 99 Here

these readings were not regarded as unusual for those areas.

It wasn't 100 in Circleville Thursday.

But it felt like much more, many a brow-wiping citizen claimed.

Charles Carter, watchman of the local official thermometer, said the high was 99.

Carter, after a thorough search of official records, said records showed that in June, 1940, the high was an even 100.

In August, 1944, the mercury edged upward to 102.

"Now, when I worked in harvest fields when I was a boy," Carter (and many another recaller of the good old days) exclaimed, "I know darn well it was a lot hotter than 102."

testified under oath that he knew Chambers only as "George Crosley."

CHAMBERS, reformed Communist and now a $25,000-a-year Time Magazine editor, testified that he and Hiss were fellow Communists and close friends.

The News-Post story said Chambers finally acquired the farm property after Hiss had gone so far as to make a down payment on it, later apparently losing interest in the deal.

The Baltimore newspaper's account of the strange circumstances emphasized that Chambers, in dealing for the property, used his own name.

The committee assigned Donald Appel, an investigator, to investigate.

Meanwhile, in the continuing Communist espionage investigation, handwriting experts were called in as the inquiry was widened to include two former members of the National Labor Relations Board.

Rep. McDowell, (R) Pa., said the experts would be called to determine whether a William Rosen of Washington, D. C., was the man who received a 1929 car which Hiss is accused of having turned over to the Communist Party.

increase will be reflected in retail prices within a few weeks.

GOVERNMENT officials, however, termed the boost an indication of a "fluctuating" market and said it would not have too much effect on the overall inflation picture.

Average farm prices increase .3 percent but food costs dropped .4 percent below the previous week's figure.

Most grains and some livestock prices were up, corn down and "moderately" lower prices were reported for butter and cheese. Fresh pork prices were lower but cured pork and dressings and poultry quotations were slightly higher.

BLS also said there were price increases on several types of shoes, wool suits and automobiles as a result of higher production costs.

Building materials and house-furnishing goods were reported unchanged at 202.0 percent and 146.8 percent, respectively.

Little made the keynoting address within the chamber, where his followers had stocked pro-Soviet and pro-Communist placards.

Today's short-lived council meeting had been called in defiance of Communist and Soviet pressure tactics.

Little, in his fiery speech inside the council, accused the non-Communist majority of "cowardice in the face of the indignant Berlin working population."

He said that his party, the SED, was "ready and willing to get an assembly meeting underway immediately."

Woman Injured In Accident

A Circleville Route 4 woman was treated for head and arm injuries Thursday night in Berger hospital as a result of a car-truck collision on Lovers Lane.

Police said she was Mrs. Mary Woodward, a passenger in a car with her husband, Ed Woodward, 65.

Woodward's vehicle reportedly collided with a truck owned by Harry Radcliff of Circleville Route 3, which was parked in front of Radcliff's home on Lovers Lane.

Lights from an oncoming automobile blinded Woodward and he rammed the front end of the parked vehicle, police said.

Ananias, Disciple at Damascus

THE MAN WHO DID AS HE WAS TOLD

Scripture—Acts 9:1-22

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
WHEN we see or hear the name Ananias we immediately think of the Biblical character who sold a piece of land, then lied to God and the church about the price he was paid for it—thus giving his name to liars of all succeeding years. He was the husband of Sapphira, as related in Acts 5:1-7.

It is unfortunate that we associate this name with the man who was untruthful, because there is another Ananias also in the Book of Acts who was not only a truthful man, but was a devout disciple, who obeyed the Lord's voice implicitly, even when he was very much prejudiced against the man God commanded him to help.

Ananias of Damascus is the hero of this lesson so we will only briefly relate the circumstances that brought him to our notice and which concern Saul who afterwards became Paul, the apostle, and one of the really great leaders of the early Christian church.

Saul (as Paul was then called), educated strictly in the formal Jewish religion and a Pharisee, was filled with hatred of this new sect called Christianity. He saw Stephen, the first martyr, cruelly stoned to death, and approved the deed.

Filled with fury at the new religion which threatened the old Jewish traditions, Saul went to the high priest and asked for a letter to the synagogue at Damascus, giving him authority to arrest all Christians he could find there, and bring them bound to Jerusalem.

However, on his way, with his escorts, Paul was suddenly blinded by a great light, while a voice said, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?" Saul, who had fallen from his horse, said, "Who art thou, Lord," and the voice answered, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest."

Trembling with fear and astonishment, Saul asked what the Lord wanted him to do, and the answer was that he was to proceed to Damascus, and there he would be told what next to do.

The great light, however, had blinded Saul, and those with him had to lead him by the hand to the city of Damascus, where he was lodged in the street called Straight, in the house of one named Judas.

arrangement of "O, Shepherd of Israel."

AMONG many outstanding persons to be heard Sunday will be Mrs. Peter J. Blosser of Chillicothe, the Rev. James L. McWilliams of Wilmington, Bernard Anderson of Zanesville, and the Rev. George Brown of Ashland.

Frank Sharp, who was delegate to the general assembly in Seattle, Wash., will preside for the 7:30 p. m. service.

Miss Evelyn Theobald, 17-year-old artist of South Solon, will present a 20-minute period of musical selections. Mrs. Lloyd Evans will be heard in a soprano solo.

Quartet, composed of Ralph Haney, Mrs. A. C. Groom, Mrs. David Crouse Jr. and Walter Hayney, will sing.

Frank Simpson of Chillicothe and the Rev. Mr. Kilpatrick of Greenfield will deliver addresses.

Demos To Meet
COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—The Ohio League of Young Democratic Clubs will hold its state meeting here Sunday. All state candidates have been invited to attend.

For three days Saul saw no one, neither did he eat or sleep. In the meantime, in the home of Ananias, came a vision in the night, calling him by name.

Recognizing that the voice was the Lord's, Ananias said, "Behold, I am here," and was then told that on the morrow he should go to a certain house in the street called Straight, where he would find Saul, who would be expecting him.

Ananias was to lay his hands on this man and restore to him his sight. Ananias had heard all about Saul and his reputation as a persecutor of Christ's followers, and he said so, but the Lord answered that this same man had been chosen by Him "To bear My name before the Gentiles and kings, and the children of Israel."

It never entered Ananias' head to disobey the Lord and His command, so he went to the house of Judas in the street called Straight. He entered the room where Saul was, and said: "Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou comest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost."

As the good man spoke, the scales fell from Saul's eyes; he saw and was straightway baptized.

Saul was not the man to do things by halves. Convinced of the error of his ways, he immediately put all the energy of his nature into the cause of Christ, and became as zealous in His cause as he had been heretofore in persecuting His followers.

His obedience to the holy voice, although Ananias probably did not realize it at the time, was to result in one of the greatest blessings that ever came to the church.

In our homes today the children who are taught to obey are best fitted for life when they reach adulthood. Even their physical safety often depends upon this habit of obedience.

How much woe are they spared as they go through life when their spiritual and moral natures are enabled to resist temptation through obedience to that "still, small voice within" which is called conscience, which warns them of evil.

Ouster Brings $100,000 Suit

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—Seventy-year-old David A. Fitzgerald of Columbus may have found a way to get off the old age pension rolls.

He's asking $100,000 in a suit against his landlord, Eleanor Holtzman, and Municipal Court Bailiff Louis R. Toole, who evicted him from his room.

Fitzgerald said his furniture was broken when it was thrown from the fourth floor and that he was forced to sleep in an alley while still suffering from injuries received earlier when he was robbed and beaten.

Kingston Church 150 Years Old

Special Services Set For Sunday

Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian church of Kingston will celebrate its sesqui-centennial Sunday with special services being arranged for morning, afternoon and evening.

The church was founded one day prior to the day Fayette County was organized in 1798. The Rev. Charles J. Hupp is pastor of the church. The Rev. Donald E. Mitchell, pastor of Circleville Presbyterian church, is moderator.

Services open Sunday at 10 a. m. with the Sunday school period under direction of Mrs. E. V. Graves, superintendent. A piano prelude by James Umsted will open the day's observance.

Program includes Scripture readings, a solo by Umsted, prayer by Mrs. Graves and a playlet. Former Sunday school superintendents will be introduced at this time.

Holy Communion will take place at the 10:30 service, under the leadership of Rev. Mr. Hupp.

Silver plates of the 1860 period will be used to serve the bread. Wine will be poured from a silver tankard of the 1880 era. Modern service cups are to be used in the rites for all members of the congregation and their guests.

Invocation will be offered by the Rev. J. L. McWilliams of Wilmington, former pastor of the church.

The Rev. Charles Elkjer, pastor of Kingston Methodist church, will read Scripture selections.

The Rev. Frank Throop, pastor of Columbus Central Presbyterian church, will deliver the sermon.

SPECIAL music will be heard during the worship period including a vocal solo by Rev. Mr. Hupp.

At noon, dinner will be served by the Ladies Guild in the Sunday school room.

David Crouse of Kingston will preside for the afternoon session, opening at 2 p. m. A period of music will be furnished by the Whisler Presbyterian church. Miss Marguerite Dearth, violinist, will play "Prayer Perfect," accompanied by Miss Jean Dearth. Dwight Rector will offer a baritone solo. Mrs. Leslie Dearth will accompany the Whisler chorus in the anthems.

J. C. Jackson, moderator of the Cleveland Presbytery will offer the invocation.

Miss Elizabeth Umsted will be heard in a vocal solo.

Crouse will give a historical introduction preceding a group of readings. "The First Fifty Years," written by the Rev. Timothy Stearns (1848) will be read by Lyle Evans of Chillicothe.

"The Second Fifty Years" written by the Rev. George Carpenter (1898) will be read by Frank Sharp.

"The Third Fifty Years" written by the Rev. Sherman A. Teague (1924) former pastor of the church will be read by Crouse.

Mrs. Lloyd Evans, Mrs. Fred Long, Mrs. W. D. Wood and Miss Evelyn Orr will sing a quartet

Ananias, Disciple at Damascus

THE MAN WHO DID AS HE WAS TOLD

Scripture—Acts 9:1-22

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
WHEN WE see or hear the name Ananias we immediately think of the Biblical character who sold a piece of land, then lied to God and the church about the price he was paid for it—thus giving his name to liars of all succeeding years. He was the husband of Sapphira, as related in Acts 5:1-7.

It is unfortunate that we associate this name with the man who was untruthful, because there is also Ananias also in the Book of Acts who was not only a truthful man, but was a devout disciple, who obeyed the Lord's voice implicitly, even when he was very much prejudiced against the man God commanded him to help.

Ananias of Damascus is the hero of this lesson so we will only briefly relate the circumstances that brought him to our notice and which concern Saul who afterwards became Paul, the apostle, and one of the really great leaders of the early Christian church. Saul (as Paul was then called), educated strictly in the formal Jewish religion and a Pharisee, was filled with hatred of this new sect called Christianity. He saw Stephen, the first martyr, cruelly stoned to death, and approved the deed.

Filled with fury at the new religion which threatened the old Jewish traditions, Saul went to the high priest and asked for a letter to the synagogue at Damascus, giving him authority to arrest all Christians he could find there, and bring them bound to Jerusalem.

However, on his way, with his escorts, Paul was suddenly blinded by a great light, while a voice said, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?" Saul, who had fallen from his horse, said, "Who art thou, Lord?" and the voice answered, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest."

Trembling with fear and astonishment, Saul asked what the Lord wanted him to do, and the answer was that he was to proceed to Damascus, and there he would be told what next to do. The great light, however, had blinded Saul, and those with him had to lead him by the hand to the city of Damascus, where he was lodged in the street called Straight, in the house of one named Judas.

arrangement of "O, Shepherd of Israel."

AMONG many outstanding persons to be heard Sunday will be Mrs. Peter J. Blosser of Chillicothe, the Rev. James L. McWilliams of Wilmington, Bernard Anderson of Zanesville, and the Rev. George Brown of Ashland.

Frank Sharp, who was delegate to the general assembly in Seattle, Wash., will preside for the 7:30 p. m. service.

Miss Evelyn Theobald, 17-year-old artist of South Solon, will present a 20-minute period of musical selections. Mrs. Lloyd Evans will be heard in a soprano solo.

Quartet, composed of Ralph Haney, Mrs. A. C. Groom, Mrs. David Crouse Jr. and Walter Hayney, will sing.

Frank Simpson of Chillicothe and the Rev. Mr. Kilpatrick of Greenfield will deliver addresses.

Demos To Meet

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—The Ohio League of Young Democratic Clubs will hold its state meeting here Sunday. All state candidates have been invited to attend.

For three days Saul saw no one, neither did he eat or sleep. In the meantime, in the home of Ananias, came a vision in the night, calling him by name.

Recognizing that the voice was the Lord's, Ananias said, "Behold, I am here," and was then told that on the morrow he should go to a certain house in the street called Straight, where he would find Saul, who would be expecting him.

Ananias was to lay his hands on this man and restore to him his sight. Ananias had heard all about Saul and his reputation as a persecutor of Christ's followers, and he said so, but the Lord answered that this same man had been chosen by Him "to bear My name before the Gentiles and kings, and the children of Israel."

It never entered Ananias' head to disobey the Lord and His command, so he went to the house of Judas in the street called Straight.

He entered the room where Saul was, and said: "Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou comest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost."

As the good man spoke, the scales fell from Saul's eyes; he saw and was straightway baptized.

Saul was not the man to do things by halves. Convinced of the error of his ways, he immediately put all the energy of his nature into the cause of Christ, and became as zealous in His cause as he had been heretofore in persecuting His followers.

His obedience to the holy voice, although Ananias probably did not realize it at the time, was to result in one of the greatest blessings that ever came to the church.

In our homes today the children who are taught to obey are best fitted for life when they reach adulthood. Even their physical safety often depends upon this habit of obedience.

How much we are they spared as they go through life when their spiritual and moral natures are enabled to resist temptation through obedience to that "still, small voice within" which is called conscience, which warns them of evil.

Ouster Brings $100,000 Suit

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—Seventy-year-old David A. Fitzgerald of Columbus may have found a way to get off the old age pension rolls.

He's asking $100,000 in a suit against his landlord, Eleanor Holtzman, and Municipal Court Bailiff Louis R. Toole, who evicted him from his room.

Fitzgerald said his furniture was broken when it was thrown from the fourth floor and that he was forced to sleep in an alley while still suffering from injuries received earlier when he was robbed and beaten.

Kelsey Named

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—Ray T. Kelsey, editor of The Ohio Farmer, will become treasurer and general manager of Capper-Harman-Slocum, Inc., of Cleveland, big farm publications firm, on Sept. 1, to succeed Neff Laing, who resigned.

VETO FOR CEYLON

AN INCREASE in the wide-spread pressure for curbing or elimination of the big-power veto in the United Nations probably will be the chief result of the Russian veto of the application of Ceylon for membership. The Russians said Ceylon is not really independent.

The member nations which do not have the power of veto are becoming more and more restive under it. The other major nations holding the veto are reluctant to consider curbing it, despite their own annoyance at repeated Russian use of it, because they want to retain the veto to protect their individual interests while working with the United Nations. This would seem to protect the veto indefinitely. But if the preponderant majority of the smaller nations should become disgusted with it and agree among themselves to forsake the United Nations unless the veto be eliminated, it is conceivable that they could win their point.

The exercise of the veto by Russia seems well calculated to bring on such a result. It has now invoked the veto 27 times, and Ceylon is the seventh nation to be barred from membership solely by the Soviet veto. The list of nations blackballed by Russia is curious: Austria, Italy, Trans-Jordan, Ireland, Portugal, Finland, and now Ceylon. Who could say the Irish are not independent?

Presumably if Austria, Italy and Finland, for instance, would adopt Communist governments the objections of the Soviet Union would be speedily withdrawn, as the applicants could then conform with the Moscow definition of "independent."

WOOMERA

IN PRIMITIVE times, Australian aborigines gave the name Woomera to a settlement which was three hundred miles north of what is now the city of Adelaide, after one of their weapons, a sling used to hurl a spear on a long flight.

This location is now very suitably the site of a project which will manufacture and test the latest models of rocket ships. A rocket range, which will take years to complete, will be 3,000 miles long and 200 miles wide, and will cost ten million dollars for the first lap of 300 miles.

The world of the aborigines was small, covering at most a few hundred square miles. The spear-hurling sling took efficient care of their enemies. The modern world, encompassing continents and oceans, has not grown in moral force in proportion to its physical size. One of its prime needs is still a weapon which will cover a great distance.

U. S. Keeps Its Punch Result of 'Cold War' Crises Follow Crises Up U. S. Preparedness

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—The Russian "cold war" is having an effect which must be extremely welcome to the Kremlin. The United States is holding on to much of its World War II punch, with something added.

Demobilization of men and weapons snowballed in the year following V-J Day, but recurring crises since then have spurred a bipartisan consciousness of keen necessity for preparedness. As a result, appropriations have been made available to permit:

1—Readiness, almost at a moment's notice, of a heavy bombing force capable of dumping 10 to 35 thousand tons of bombs on an enemy. The amount, of course, will be dependent on the distance of the target.
2—An alerted Navy featuring aircraft carriers mounting jet planes and guided missile offensives, aircraft-carrying submarines which can also launch guided missiles.
3—Army to be swelled within a year by the draft to a respectable peacetime size. The country's defenses still leave much to be desired. The new sub fleet, for instance, featuring troop and cargo transports and speedy picket V boats, is only a nucleus. A complete jet air force is some time away. However, top military tacticians believe it will take the United States much less than the 18 months it took in the last war to bring full power to bear in any new conflict.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

For months now, Communism, Soviet Russia, spies, sabotage, Congressional hearings, grand jury secrecy have filled the press of the country, and the mail grows increasingly heavy with the question, "What is it?"

To answer all the questions asked would take the full time of a large bureau. Therefore, may I suggest that you get hold of a pamphlet called "100 Things You Should Know About Communism in the USA"? This has been prepared and released by the Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

It is announced as the first of a series of five pamphlets by this committee, and although at times some matters are oversimplified, on the whole the information it provides is accurate and sufficient. For instance, professors in this country get all excited when anybody criticizes any one of them. This is particularly true of American Communist and fellow-traveler professors who are strong on "Academic Freedom." So the pamphlet deals with it this way:

Q—"Could I teach what I please with 'academic freedom'?"

A—"You would teach only what the Communists authorize you to teach. You would be asking for jail or death to try anything else."

Q—"Could I do scientific research free of governmental interference and restrictions?"

A—"Police and spies would watch your every move. You would be liquidated on the slightest suspicion of doing anything contrary to orders."

Recently, the Soviet government kicked up a row with Russian composers for not writing proletarian music. It appears from the latest reports that such composers as Khachaturian, Shostakovich and Prokofiev are writing to please Stalin's deputy, Zhdanov. Again, some Russian scientists were involved in difficulties because, in the field of genetics, they reached what their government insists is an anti-Marxist position. A Soviet economist who concluded that, despite Henry Wallace, this country would not have a depression in 1948, was kicked out of his job.

No, there is no academic freedom in any country controlled by Soviet Russia. And it is logical that there should not be, because under their system, the government knows everything. It knows what is right and wrong, what each individual should do, what he should believe and accept as truth. So the pamphlet says:

Q—"Could I go to school?"
A—"You could go to the kind of school the Communists tell you to, and nowhere else. You could go as long as they let you and no longer. You could read only what the Communists let you; hear only what they let you, and as far as they could manage, you would know only what they let you."

That is one reason for the present turmoil in the world. Millions of people have no access to the truth. They may only read newspapers, magazines and books prepared by their own government. When they are officially told that a Russian and not Thomas Edison invented the electric light they believe it because they have no means of learning anything else. When they are told that the billions that the United States pours into Europe is not to benefit those people but to conquer them, they cannot know that that is not true. So the pamphlet calls attention to how widespread this danger is:

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

AS THE INQUEST continued Beatrice Lippincott gave evidence of the arrival of deceased. He had registered as Enoch Arden, Cape-town.

"Did deceased produce a ration book?"

"No, sir."

"Did you ask him for one?"

"Not at first. I did not know how long he was staying."

"But you did eventually ask him?"

"Yes, sir. He arrived on the Friday and on Saturday I said if he was staying more than five days would he please let me have his ration book."

"What did he say to that?"

"He said he would give it to me."

"But he did not actually do so."

"No."

"He did not say that he had lost it? Or had not got one?"

"Oh no. He just said, 'I'll look it out and bring it along.'"

"Miss Lippincott, did you, on the night of Saturday, overhear a conversation?"

"With a good deal of elaborate explanation as to the necessity, she was under of visiting No. 4, Beatrice Lippincott told her tale. The Coroner guided her astutely.

"Thank you. Did you mention this conversation you had overheard to anybody?"

"Yes, I told Mr. Rowley Clode."

"Why did you tell Mr. Clode?"

"I thought he ought to know," Beatrice flushed.

A tall thin man, Mr. Gaythorne, rose and asked permission to put a question.

"In the course of the conversation between the deceased and Mr. David Hunter did the deceased at any time mention definitely that he himself was Robert Underhay?"

"No—he didn't."

"In fact he spoke of Robert Underhay as though Robert Underhay was quite another person?"

"Yes—yes, he did."

"Thank you, Mr. Coroner, that was all I wanted to get clear."

Beatrice Lippincott stood down and Rowley Clode was called.

He confirmed that Beatrice had repeated the story to him and then gave his account of his interview with the deceased.

"His last words to you were, 'I don't think you'll prove that without my co-operation.' That—being the fact that Robert Underhay was still alive."

"That's what he said, yes. And he laughed."

"He laughed, did he? What did you take those words to mean?"

"Well—I just thought he was trying to get me to make him an offer, but afterwards I got thinking—"

"Yes, Mr. Clode—but what you thought afterwards is hardly relevant. Shall we put it that as a result of that interview you set about trying to find some person who was acquainted with the late Robert Underhay? And, that, with certain help, you were successful?"

Rowley nodded.

"That's right."

"What time was it when you left the deceased?"

"As nearly as I can tell it was five minutes to nine."

"What made you fix on that time?"

"As I went along the street I heard the nine o'clock news pips through an open window."

"Did the deceased mention at what time he was expecting this client?"

"He said 'At any minute.'"

"He did not mention any name?"

"No."

"David Hunter?"

There was just a faint buzz as the inhabitants of Warningsley Vale craned their necks to look at the tall thin bitter-looking young man who stood defiantly facing the Coroner.

"You went to see the deceased on Saturday evening?"

"Yes. I received a letter from him asking for assistance and stating he had known my sister's first husband in Africa."

"You have got that letter?"

"No, I don't keep letters."

"You have heard the account given by Beatrice Lippincott of your conversation with the deceased. Is that a true account?"

"Quite untrue. The deceased spoke of knowing my late brother-in-law, complained of his own bad luck and of having come down in the world, and begged for some financial assistance which, as is usual, he was quite confident of being able to repay."

"Did he tell you that Robert Underhay was still alive?"

David smiled.

"Certainly not. He said, 'If Robert were still alive I know he would help me.'"

"That is quite different from what Beatrice Lippincott tells us?"

"Eavesdroppers," said David, "usually hear only a portion of what goes on and frequently get the whole thing wrong owing to supplying the missing details from their own fertile imaginations."

Beatrice flushed angrily and exclaimed, "Well, I never—" The Coroner said repressively, "Silence, please."

"Now, Mr. Hunter, did you visit the deceased again on the night of Tuesday?"

"No, I did not."

"You have heard Mr. Rowley Clode say that the deceased expected a visitor?"

"He may have expected a visitor. I thought that was quite enough for him. There was no proof that he'd ever known Robert Underhay."

Quietly he let his eyes pass over the assembled Clodes.

"Mr. Hunter, will you tell us where you were on the evening of Tuesday?"

"Find out," said David.

"Mr. Hunter!" The Coroner rapped the table. "That is a most foolish and ill-advised thing to say."

"Why should I tell you where I was, and what I was doing? Time enough for that when you accuse me of murdering the man."

"If you persist in that attitude it may come to that sooner than you think. Do you recognize this, Mr. Hunter?"

Leaning forward, David took the gold cigarette lighter into his hand. His face was puzzled. Handing it back, he said slowly:

"Yes, it's mine."

"When did you have it last?"

"I missed it—" He paused.

"Yes, Mr. Hunter?" The Coroner's voice was suave.

Gaythorne fidgeted, seemed about to speak. But David was too quick for him.

"I had it last on Friday—Friday morning. I don't remember seeing it since."

Mr. Gaythorne rose.

"With your permission, Mr. Coroner. You visited the deceased on Saturday evening. Might you not have left the lighter there then?"

"I might have, I suppose," David said slowly. "I certainly don't remember seeing it after Friday—" He added: "Where was it found?"

The Coroner said:

"We shall go into that later. You can stand down now, Mr. Hunter."

David moved slowly back to his seat. He bent his head and whispered to Rosaleen Clode.

"Major Porter."

Hemming and hawing a little, Major Porter took the stand. He stood there, an erect soldierly figure, as though on parade. Only the way he moistened his lips showed the intense nervousness from which he was suffering.

"You are George Douglas Porter, late Major of the Royal African Rifles?"

"Yes."

"How well did you know Robert Underhay?"

In a parade ground voice Major Porter barked out places and dates.

"You have viewed the body of the deceased?"

"Yes."

"Can you identify that body?"

"Yes. It is the body of Robert Underhay."

A buzz of excitement went round the Court.

"You state that positively and without the least doubt?"

"I do."

"There is no possibility of your being mistaken?"

"None."

"Thank you, Major Porter. Mr. Gordon Clode."

Diet And Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A GOOD many children are born with certain ear deformities which, though not serious in a physical sense, may yet have grave consequences because of the ridicule they cause.

The ears may be abnormal in their size, shape, or position, and any one of these things can make a child miserable. To be taunted and twitted by other youngsters about such a flaw in appearance leads to distrust, resentment, and a host of other unpleasant emotions which may turn a slight physical defect into a lifelong emotional handicap. For this reason parents should see to it that such conditions are corrected as soon as possible.

Plastic Surgeon
Fortunately today, the plastic surgeon can do wonders in this way. In the case of outstanding ears it is a mistake to use retaining devices such as skull caps, adhesive tape or bandage, none of which will bring the ears into normal position. For this an operation is required. But to be successful it must be the right operation. Removing part of the skin back of the ear and then sewing the tissues together to bring the ear closer to the head will accomplish nothing. This is because the skin stretches so readily. Thus, within two or three weeks, the ear will usually have resumed its outstanding position.

In general, to be successful, any operation to correct either the shape or position of the ear must be done on the cartilage of the ear itself—not on the skin covering it.

Just what type of operation should be performed can only be determined by a plastic surgeon after he has made a careful study to determine what the deformity is. Aside from ears that stick out from the head, abnormalities of the position of the ears are rather rare. In such cases, the tissues connecting the external ear to the head are cut, making sure that enough blood supply is saved, and the ear moved to the proper position.

Occasionally, the ears are excessively large, and in such instances a portion of the ear must be cut away. When one ear is smaller than the other, the wisest treatment is to reduce the size of the larger ear.

Sometimes a person has triangular or pointed ears. This, too, requires a plastic operation for correction.

The ear usually has reached its full growth in size by the time a child is six years of age. Hence, operations to correct ear abnormalities may be performed at that time without fear of retarding further growth of the ear.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
T. S.: Will you please tell me what causes sties and what can be done for them?

Answer: Sties are an infection of one of the many glands on the edge of the eyelid. Applying a little one per cent yellow oxide of mercury ointment along the edges of the eyelids once every other day, just before the person goes to sleep, will often help to prevent sties. This is done by turning down the lower lid or turning up the upper lid in order to put on the ointment. Building up the body strength by getting plenty of fresh air, sunshine, exercise, rest, and sleep, as well as the right kind and amount of food, and cod-liver oil, also does much to prevent sties.

VETO FOR CEYLON

AN INCREASE in the wide-spread pressure for curbing or elimination of the big-power veto in the United Nations probably will be the chief result of the Russian veto of the application of Ceylon for membership. The Russians said Ceylon is not really independent.

The member nations which do not have the power of veto are becoming more and more restive under it. The other major nations holding the veto are reluctant to consider curbing it, despite their own annoyance at repeated Russian use of it, because they want to retain the veto to protect their individual interests while working with the United Nations. This would seem to protect the veto indefinitely. But if the preponderant majority of the smaller nations should become disgusted with it and agree among themselves to forsake the United Nations unless the veto be eliminated, it is conceivable that they could win their point.

The exercise of the veto by Russia seems well calculated to bring on such a result. It has now invoked the veto 27 times, and Ceylon is the seventh nation to be barred from membership solely by the Soviet veto. The list of nations blackballed by Russia is curious: Austria, Italy, Trans-Jordan, Ireland, Portugal, Finland, and now Ceylon. Who could say the Irish are not independent?

Presumably if Austria, Italy and Finland, for instance, would adopt Communist governments the objections of the Soviet Union would be speedily withdrawn, as the applicants could then conform with the Moscow definition of "independent."

WOOMERA

IN PRIMITIVE times, Australian aborigines gave the name Woomera to a settlement which was three hundred miles north of what is now the city of Adelaide, after one of their weapons, a sling used to hurl a spear on a long flight.

This location is now very suitably the site of a project which will manufacture and test the latest models of rocket ships. A rocket range, which will take years to complete, will be 3,000 miles long and 200 miles wide, and will cost ten million dollars for the first lap of 300 miles.

The world of the aborigines was small, covering at most a few hundred square miles. The spear-hurling sling took efficient care of their enemies. The modern world, encompassing continents and oceans, has not grown in moral force in proportion to its physical size. One of its prime needs is still a weapon which will cover a great distance.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

For months now, Communism, Soviet Russia, spies, sabotage, Congressional hearings, grand jury secrecy have filled the press of the country, and the mail grows increasingly heavy with the question, "What is it?"

To answer all the questions asked would take the full time of a large bureau. Therefore, may I suggest that you get hold of a pamphlet called "100 Things You Should Know About Communism in the USA"? This has been prepared and released by the Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

It is announced as the first of a series of five pamphlets by this committee, and although at times some matters are oversimplified, on the whole the information it provides is accurate and sufficient. For instance, professors in this country get all excited when anybody criticizes any one of them. This is particularly true of American Communist and fellow-traveler professors who are strong on "Academic Freedom." So the pamphlet deals with it this way:

Q—"Could I teach what I please with 'academic freedom'?"

A—"You would teach only what the Communists authorize you to teach. You would be asking for jail or death to try anything else."

Q—"Could I do scientific research free of governmental interference and restrictions?"

A—"Police and spies would watch your every move. You would be liquidated on the slightest suspicion of doing anything contrary to orders."

Recently, the Soviet government kicked up a row with Russian composers for not writing proletarian music. It appears from the latest reports that such composers as Khachaturian, Shostakovich and Prokofiev are writing to please Stalin's deputy, Zhdanov. Again, some Russian scientists were involved in difficulties because, in the field of genetics, they reached what their government insists is an anti-Marxist position. A Soviet economist who concluded that, despite Henry Wallace, this country would not have a depression in 1948, was kicked out of his job.

No, there is no academic freedom in any country controlled by Soviet Russia. And it is logical that there should not be, because under their system, the government knows everything. It knows what is right and wrong, what each individual should do, what he should believe and accept as truth. So the pamphlet says:

Q—"Could I go to school?"

A—"You could go to the kind of school the Communists tell you to, and nowhere else. You could go as long as they let you and no longer. You could read only what the Communists let you; hear only what they let you, and as far as they could manage, you would know only what they let you."

That is one reason for the present turmoil in the world. Millions of people have no access to the truth. They may only read newspapers, magazines and books prepared by their own government. When they are officially told that a Russian and not Thomas Edison invented the electric light they believe it because they have no means of learning anything else. When they are told that the billions that the United States pours into Europe is not to benefit those people but to conquer them, they cannot know that that is not true. So the pamphlet calls attention to how widespread this danger is:

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

AS THE INQUEST continued Beatrice Lippincott gave evidence of the arrival of deceased. He had registered as Enoch Arden, Cape-town.

"Did deceased produce a ration book?"

"No, sir."

"Did you ask him for one?"

"Not at first. I did not know how long he was staying."

"But you did eventually ask him?"

"Yes, sir. He arrived on the Friday and on Saturday I said if he was staying more than five days would he please let me have his ration book."

"What did he say to that?"

"He said he would give it to me."

"But he did not actually do so."

"No."

"He did not say that he had lost it? Or had not got one?"

"Oh no. He just said, 'I'll look it out and bring it along.'"

"Miss Lippincott, did you, on the night of Saturday, overhear a certain conversation?"

"With a good deal of elaborate explanation as to the necessity she was under of visiting No. 4, Beatrice Lippincott told her tale. The Coroner guided her astutely.

"Thank you. Did you mention this conversation you had overheard to Mr. Rowley Cloade?"

"Yes, I told Mr. Rowley Cloade."

"Why did you tell Mr. Cloade?"

"I thought he ought to know," Beatrice flushed.

A tall thin man, Mr. Gaythorne, rose and asked permission to put a question.

"In the course of the conversation between the deceased and Mr. David Hunter did the deceased at any time mention definitely that he himself was Robert Underhay?"

"No—no—he didn't."

"In fact he spoke of Robert Underhay as though Robert Underhay was quite another person?"

"Yes—yes, he did."

"Thank you, Mr. Coroner, that was all I wanted to get clear."

Beatrice Lippincott stood down and Rowley Cloade was called.

He confirmed that Beatrice had repeated the story to him and then gave his account of his interview with the deceased.

"His last words to you were, 'I don't think you'll prove that without my co-operation? That'—being the fact that Robert Underhay was still alive."

"That's what he said, yes. And he laughed, did he? What did you take those words to mean?"

"Well—I just thought he was trying to get me to make him an offer, but afterwards I got thinking—"

"Yes, Mr. Cloade—but what you thought afterwards is hardly relevant. Shall we put it that as a result of that interview you set about trying to find some person who was acquainted with the late Robert Underhay?"

"Yes, sir."

"You have heard Mr. Rowley Cloade say that the deceased expected a visitor?"

"He may have expected a visitor. I thought that was quite enough for him. There was no proof that he'd ever known Robert Underhay."

My sister, since she inherited a large income from her husband, has been the target of every beggar letter writer and every sponger in the neighborhood."

Quietly he let his eyes pass over

Robert Underhay? And, that, with certain help, you were successful?"

Rowley nodded.

"That's right."

"What time was it when you left the house?"

"As nearly as I can tell it was five minutes to nine."

"What made you fix on that time?"

"As I went along the street I heard the nine o'clock news pips through an open window."

"Did the deceased mention at what time he was expecting this client?"

"He said 'At any minute.'"

"He did not mention any name?"

"No."

"David Hunter?"

"There was just a faint buzz as the inhabitants of Warmley Vale craned their necks to look at the tall thin bitter-looking young man who stood defiantly facing the Coroner."

"You went to see the deceased on Saturday evening?"

"Yes. I received a letter from him asking for assistance and stating he had known my sister's first husband in Africa."

"You have got that letter?"

"No, I don't keep letters."

"You have heard the account given by Beatrice Lippincott of your conversation with the deceased. Is that a true account?"

"Quite untrue. The deceased spoke of knowing my late brother-in-law, complained of his own bad luck and of having come down in the world, and begged for some financial assistance which, as is usual, he was quite confident of being able to repay."

"Did he tell you that Robert Underhay was still alive?"

David smiled.

"Certainly not. He said, 'If Robert were still alive I know he would help me.'"

"That is quite different from what Beatrice Lippincott tells us?"

"Eavesdroppers," said David, "usually hear only a portion of what goes on and frequently get the whole thing wrong owing to supplying the missing details from their own fertile imaginations."

Beatrice frowned angrily and exclaimed, "Well, I never." The Coroner said repressively, "Silence, please."

"Now, Mr. Hunter, did you visit the deceased again on the night of Tuesday—"

"No, I did not."

"You have heard Mr. Rowley Cloade say that the deceased expected a visitor?"

"He may have expected a visitor. I thought that was quite enough for him. There was no proof that he'd ever known Robert Underhay."

Dr. Lucille Snow Speaks Before BPW Club At Dinner Meet

Wardell Party Home Scene Of Session

Members of Business and Professional Women's Club were reminded of their former school days when dunce caps and slates were featured decorations at a dinner meeting Thursday evening.

The Wardell Party Home on the Williamsport pike was the scene of the Summer meeting. "School Days" was sung by the group, under the leadership of Mrs. Harriet Henness and Mrs. Clark Martin. They were accompanied at the piano by Miss Margie Carmean.

Following the evening meal, Mrs. Guy C. Campbell, president, called a short business session. A letter was read from Lucille Snow, state president, pertaining to the fall leadership session to take place Sept. 18 and 19 in Columbus.

Mrs. Joe Work, program chairman, outlined activities for the coming year. First meeting will be Sept. 9 with Miss Mildred Urton, membership chairman, in charge.

Contests were won by Mrs. Harold Fry, Mrs. Work, Miss Clarissa Talbot, Mrs. Henness and Miss Elizabeth Hilyard.

Dr. Lucille Snow of Evanston, Ill., former resident of Circleville and member of the Evansville BPW Club, addressed the group. She related an interesting account of her trip to the International Convention of BPW Clubs in Paris in 1947.

Dr. Snow told of living conditions in Europe and "how much the women there depend on Americans for help and how we can assist them."

SO YOU ARE CONFUSED?

Even Probers Wondering About Spy Hearing Tales

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—Just in case you have grown somewhat confused at the Communist spy probe on Capitol Hill of late, you can relax.

So you're confused? Hah! After all, you're hundreds or thousands of miles away. You're getting your dope largely through second-hand, second-dimensional or second-guessing methods. And what finally reaches your eyes and ears is telescoped terrifically.

When it comes to this controversy over the conflicting testimony of ex-Communist Whitaker Chambers and ex-State Department Official Alger Hiss, it's no wonder you're confused.

So is almost every eyewitness on the spot—even including at least a couple of the congressional probers.

Somewhat typical, perhaps, was the head-shaking comment of South Dakota's Republican Congressman Karl Mundt at the close of a session the other day.

"When I first heard Chambers tell his story," Mundt said, "I told myself: 'This man can't be lying.' Then Hiss got on the stand and said his say—and I don't mind saying I was very much impressed. 'This man certainly is telling the truth,' I thought. Now I've heard Chambers again, and he has evidence to corroborate much of his story, and it seems impossible to doubt him."

SHORTER and more to the point was Congressman Eddie Hebert, Louisiana Democrat. "What do I think of their testimony?" Hebert exploded in rhetorical repetition of the question. "Outside of the obvious fact that one of them still is lying, I don't know what to think. What do you think?"

It's a tough one. On the one hand you have Hiss, Harvard man, brilliant young lawyer and statesman who obviously has been known by and trusted by scores of patriotic American leaders—in both parties—whose loyalty has never been even momentarily in doubt.

He has been handed jobs which many men would devote their lives to attaining. It is not too rhetorical to say he has helped mould the course of current history. Unquestionably, he has carved a niche for himself in world affairs which will remain—whatever the outcome of this investigation.

On the stand, he appears slim, alert, clean-cut, given to normal irritations and understandable angers. Nothing whatever suggests the Communist, the spy or the traitor—except perhaps his occasional seeming evasion of specific questions about the past.

On the other hand you have Chambers, $25,000-a-year Time Magazine editor—again holder of a job which most men in the field devote their lives trying to attain. Unquestionably he, too, has gained the friendship and respect of men high in both public and private life. . . . men whose patriotism has long since been proved.

LIKE HISS, he also is a man of exceptional intelligence. And, at least until he came forth publicly and admitted he formerly was a Communist underground worker, he and his family were respected and highly regarded in community life.

Certainly, from a material point of view, he would seem to have nothing to gain and everything to lose by coming forth

PICKAWAY COUNTY Fair officials Friday were about ready to send out a "last call" for entries in the exposition's big "common man participation night"—the music festival which will be held during Fair Week, Sept. 14-18. George W. McDowell, chairman of the festival committee, said entries were rolling in but that he anticipated a large number still outstanding. He urged countians representing any Pickaway musical organization—sweet, swing, popular, classical, duets, trios, quartets, choruses and small orchestras—to fill in the above entry blank and forward it to his office, Pickaway courthouse, Circleville.

now to confess his past perfidies and accuse Hiss and others of similar disloyalties.

But equally certainly, Hiss would seem to have had nothing to gain and everything to lose during those past years when Chambers charged he had turned to Communism and conspired against his own country.

Thinking those thoughts, you listened to them both. On all vital points their testimony clashed unequivocally. Hiss said Chambers lied. Chambers said Hiss lied.

You're confused? Hah!

Livestock Sale Volume Holding About Steady

Sales volume at the Pickaway County Livestock Cooperative Association auctions Wednesday showed a slight increase—six head more than last week's total of 912.

SO YOU ARE CONFUSED?

Even Probers Wondering About Spy Hearing Tales

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—Just in case you have grown somewhat confused at the Communist spy probe on Capitol Hill of late, you can relax.

So you're confused? Hah! After all, you're hundreds or thousands of miles away. You're getting your dope largely through second-hand, second-dimensional or second-guessing methods. And what finally reaches your eyes and ears is telescoped terrifically.

When it comes to this controversy over the conflicting testimony of ex-Communist Whitaker Chambers and ex-State Department Official Alger Hiss, it's no wonder you're confused.

So is almost every eyewitness on the spot—even including at least a couple of the congressional probers.

Somewhat typical, perhaps, was the head-shaking comment of South Dakota's Republican Congressman Karl Mundt at the close of a session the other day. "When I first heard Chambers tell his story," Mundt said, "I told myself: 'This man can't be lying.' Then Hiss got on the stand and said his story—and I don't mind saying I was very much impressed. 'This man certainly is telling the truth,' I thought. Now I've heard Chambers again, and he has evidence to corroborate much of his story, and it seems impossible to doubt him."

SHORTER and more to the point was Congressman Eddie Hebert, Louisiana Democrat. "What do I think of their testimony?" Hebert exploded in rhetorical repetition of the question. "Outside of the obvious fact that one of them still is lying, I don't know what to think. What do you think?"

It's a tough one. On the one hand you have Hiss, Harvard man, brilliant young lawyer and statesman who obviously has been known by and trusted by scores of patriotic American leaders—in both parties—whose loyalty has never been even momentarily in doubt.

He has been handed jobs which many men would devote their lives to attaining. It is not too rhetorical to say he has helped mould the course of current history. Unquestionably, he has carved a niche for himself in world affairs which will remain—whatever the outcome of this investigation.

On the stand, he appears slim, alert, clean-cut, given to normal irritations and understandable angers. Nothing whatever suggests the Communist, the spy or the traitor—except perhaps his occasional seeming evasion of specific questions about the past.

On the other hand you have Chambers, $25,000-a-year Time Magazine editor—again holder of a job which most men in the field devote their lives trying to attain. Unquestionably he, too, has gained the friendship and respect of men high in both public and private life. . . . men whose patriotism has long since been proved.

LIKE HISS, he also is a man of exceptional intelligence. And, at least until he came forth publicly and admitted he formerly was a Communist underground worker, he and his family were respected and highly regarded in community life.

Certainly, from a material point of view, he would seem to have nothing to gain and everything to lose by coming forth

PICKAWAY COUNTY Fair officials Friday were about ready to send out a "last call" for entries in the exposition's big "common man participation night"—the music festival which will be held during Fair Week, Sept. 14-18. George W. McDowell, chairman of the festival committee, said entries were rolling in but that he anticipated a large number still outstanding. He urged countians representing any Pickaway musical organization—sweet, swing, popular, classical, duets, trios, quartets, choruses and small orchestras—to fill in the above entry blank and forward it to his office, Pickaway courthouse, Circleville.

now to confess his past perjuries, and accuse Hiss and others of similar disloyalties.

But equally certainly, Hiss would seem to have had nothing to gain and everything to lose during those past years when Chambers charged he had turned to Communism and conspired against his own country.

Thinking those thoughts, you listened to them both. On all vital points their testimony clashed unequivocally. Hiss said Chambers lied. Chambers said Hiss lied.

You're confused? Hah!

July Unemployment List Hits New Low In County

Claims in the Pickaway County Bureau of Unemployment Compensation office in Circleville hit a new low last month when the number of workless week payments dropped 38 percent from the previous month of June.

The July figure for compensable weeks paid by the local office was 289 compared to 408 the previous month. The June total was the lowest number of payments over a three year period.

While the county unemployment claims continued to fall off in noticeable figures, C. C. Thomas, manager of the local office, pointed to the increasing number of job placements located through his bureau.

According to statistics maintained by Miss Mary Wolfe, in July alone a total of 28 jobless persons in the county were placed on the payrolls of local firms and farms.

COMPARING the first seven months of the last two years, from January through July of 1948 a total of 171 persons were located in paying jobs. In the same period of 1946, only 33 unemployed were found work.

Thomas attributes the increase in employment found for county claimants due to higher production levels set in this area, more work being carried on locally and an increase in construction and contracting jobs.

In all during the month of July, only 22 new unemployment claims were filed in the local office. Of this total, 17 were listed under the Ohio Law and the remaining five were under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act.

During July, Thomas and his associates made 116 employer calls among county offices and farms to learn employee requirements and study employment trends.

He explained this is an important function of his office since aptitude and education of each claimant varies considerably and the BUC office must know beforehand what is to be expected of each worker they place.

"The idea of this plan," Thomas explained, "is to locate a worker in a job where he will be best suited and where his employer will be able to place the worker to his best advantage."

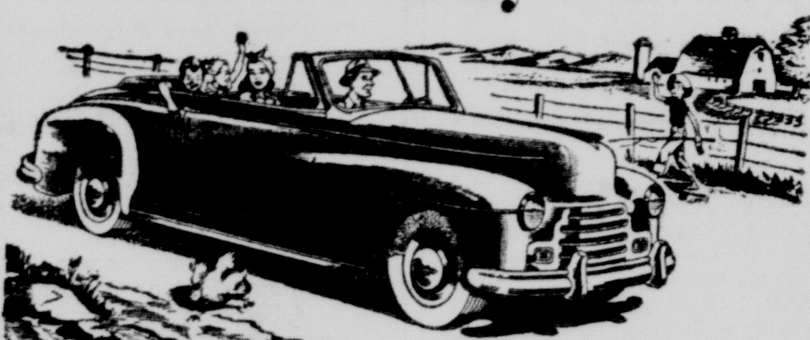

So far this year, local BUC records reveal, the average number of claims per week is 43 under the Ohio Law and 27 under the SRA. These figures compare favorably with past years, Thomas declared.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—It's the hair-raising truth that the standard price of haircuts in Columbus jumped from 75 cents to a dollar today, and a half-buck shave was up to 75 cents.

The AFL journeymen barbers bowed to inflation last night and voted the increase after rejecting it two years ago. The Columbus Master Barbers' Association gave its approval the night before to whatever action the union might take.

Meigs County Officials Hit By Grand Jury

POMEROY, Aug. 27—The removal of the Meigs County board of commissioners and County Engineer J. E. D. Hartinger was recommended today by the county grand jury.

County Prosecutor Dana H. Peoples said that a full investigation would be made.

In a partial report last May the grand jury returned an indictment against Hartinger charging him with conspiracy against Meigs County.

An indictment was also returned against Dan Hartinger, county commissioner and nephew of the county engineer, charging him with embezzlement, in addition to five charges of conspiracy.

The latest report of the grand jury contained a second indictment on charges of embezzlement against the commissioner. The jury charged that no records were kept of the activities in the county engineer's office and the few bills available were so badly made out little could be learned from them.

Average '47 Ohio Income: $1441

The total 1947 Ohio income payments came to 11 billion, 61 million dollars, against nine billion 851 million dollars the previous year.

Meanwhile, the Treasury Department reported Ohioans paid 222 million 70 thousand dollars more in federal income taxes for the fiscal year ending June 30 than they did the year before.

Negroes To Aid Gang Escapee

AKRON, Aug. 27—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People stepped in today to fight the return of 48-year-old Arthur Carter of Akron to a Tennessee chain gang after 25 years of freedom.

Carter, identified by detectives as Roy Hardy, who escaped from Tennessee's Petros Prison in 1923, currently is being held in Summit County jail awaiting a hearing Sept. 4.

Carter has lived in Akron 20 years and is now employed by a rubber company. Prison officials say he was serving a 10-to-20 year sentence for assault and battery and attempted criminal attack when he escaped from a work gang.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—There's a good chance President Truman will spend a campaign day in Ohio this Fall.

Stephen M. Young, Cleveland's Democratic congressional nominee said yesterday the President wants to come to Ohio and that the Democratic

Truman Seeking Ohio Booking

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27—There's a good chance President Truman will spend a campaign day in Ohio this Fall.

Stephen M. Young, Cleveland's Democratic congressional nominee said yesterday the President wants to come to Ohio and that the Democratic committeemen are trying to make arrangements.

Attending a meeting of the Democratic state central committee, Young said he was told in Washington the President "intends to be in Ohio one day," preferably during the last week of October.

The meeting set Sept. 16 and 17 for the Democratic state convention in Columbus. Speakers predicted that Frank Lausche will win the governorship by as high as 300,000 votes.

Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, claims to have the first municipally owned airport in the United States.

Let CHEVROLET Super Service INSPECT YOUR BRAKES

Brakes are just as much a working mechanism as the motor in your Chevrolet. Numerous pieces are subject to every day, normal wear—plus the grit and abrasives which they pick up that accent this wear. Have them checked, inspected and adjusted regularly. Our expert Chevrolet mechanics have the "know how." And pronto you'll be back on the street, ready for traffic signals and the sure, swift stops that eliminate unnecessary hazards.

Playoffs In Both Loops Seen

Tempers Short As Finale Nears

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—If you have the faintest inkling as to which club will win the pennant in either major league you deserve to be fitted immediately for the regalia of a genius.

In just five weeks the races will come to a close—or will they? The end is scheduled for Oct. 3, but a playoff in either or both leagues is a distinct possibility.

Any one of four clubs still can win in the American League and any one of five can take the National.

If any club could put on anything even resembling a winning streak it could wreck the race, but no club seems to have the necessary balance to really dominate the stretch drives.

The pressure is beginning to show. Tempers are short and squabbling frequent among the contenders.

ONE OR MORE Brooklyn Dodgers had a brisk slugging bee in Pittsburgh with a photographer as the latest incident of several in the last few weeks.

In the heat of the race, the managers also sometimes forget the rules, as Burt Shotton did in beating the Pirates by 11 to 9, only to have the final out protested and ordered replayed.

Sutton put in and pulled out a relief pitcher without giving his substitute time to dispose of the hitter at bat when he went into the game.

As a result a game has been removed from the Dodger win column and one from the Pirate loss column.

This may be a vital factor in the pennant race. The playoff is scheduled for Sept. 21 prior to the regular game of that date between the Dodgers and the Pirates.

The Dodgers won the game in Pittsburgh, but may lose it in Brooklyn, when the same setup again will prevail and the Dodgers must make the final out all over again.

The Dodgers will be leading 11 to 9, there will be Pirates on first and third, two out and the count will be 3 and 1 on Eddie Bockman, the Pirates hitter, with Carl Erskine doing the hurling.

Erskine may retire the side on one pitch to Bockman, or he may get his ears pinned back, inasmuch as the two runs needed to tie will be on base and Bockman at the plate will be the winning run.

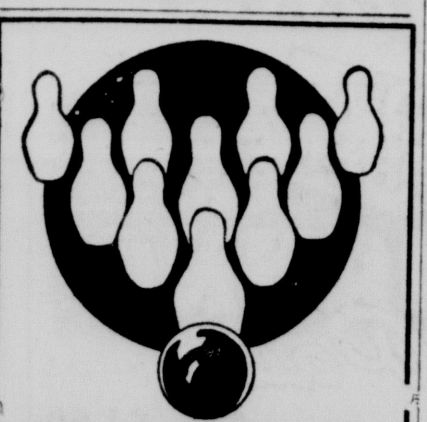

But whatever may happen, Erskine can't come out of that box until he has retired Bockman or put him on base, or the side has been otherwise retired.

Grand Trapshoot Booked Today

VANDALIA, Aug. 27—Expert trapshooters compete today in the "world series" of trapshooting—the 49th Annual Grand Handicap.

The $5,000 preliminary Grand American trapshooting handicap went yesterday to Ray S. Painter, a 35-year-old farmer from Lomax, Ill. Painter, shooting from the 20-yard handicap line, blasted the clay pigeons for a 99x100 score, and then clinched the prize by getting 50x50 in a five-way shootoff.

Mrs. G. A. Rose of Salem won the women's division of the preliminary when she broke 23 out of 25 in a shootoff with Mrs. George Fairfield of Reading, Pa. The shootoff was from the 18-yard handicap line.

Revamped Rocket '11' All Ready To Meet LA Dons

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—The Chicago Rockets, who many said would never play another game, emerge tonight in better shape than ever before as they help open the All-America Football Conference's third season by hosting the Los Angeles Dons.

The coaches, headed by Ed McKeever, a Texan making his first stab at professional ball after an admirable college coaching career, promise nothing extraordinary. Even a mild success, however, may be considered an exciting triumph in view of the team's past.

They will have their troubles tonight when they oppose the revamped Dons. Headed by Jimmy Phelan, the Los Angeles team comes into the 1948 season boasting no less than 13 ex-All-Americans on its bulging roster.

Most prominent among these is Glenn Dobbs, formerly of the University of Tulsa, whose triple-threat capabilities form the mainspring of Phelan's cagy single wing attack.

The Rockets, on paper, are doing quite well too. Their glaring vacuum at the tackles has been replaced by the likes of All-Conference Nate Johnson (from the New York Yankees) and All-American Ziggy Czarowski (from Notre Dame).

Angelo Bertelli, said by many to be the greatest passer in Notre Dame history and a pupil of McKeever's during the latter's siege of coaching duty at the South Bend school, is ready for work, his bum knee completely righted.

Fayette Pacer Sets New Mark In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27—A young trainer-driver today held five winners of the nine harness races here at the Wisconsin Centennial Fair.

Joe O'Brien returns to the Castleton Farms, Lexington, Ky., after closing the Grand Circuit racing season by winning the five heats.

O'Brien set a new season record when Jerry The First, owned by Burdick and Cobb, of Washington C. H. O., paced a 1:59 2-5 mile to take the first heat of the Big Five Pace.

Jerry The First then took the second heat in 2:00 2-5 to win the event.

Only four heats went to horses that didn't have O'Brien in the sulky.

The driver swept the 22 Pace with Merry Way in two-out-of-three heats for $5,000. Driving a horse from another stable, O'Brien took the Big Five Trot with Vita Lee, owned by Carla Lee De Vries, Norwalk, Calif.

O'Brien won one heat of the Class 15 Pace. That time he drove War Master, owned by his bosses.

Jones Helping Browns Fill Big Backfield Hole

BOWLING GREEN, Aug. 27—William "Dub" Jones is fast making the Cleveland Browns forget that big hole left in their backfield by the departure to the coaching ranks of Don Greenwood.

Jones was used sparingly in the Browns' 35-20 romp over Buffalo Sunday in Akron, but he appeared reliable offensively and almost brilliant defensively.

He carried the ball but once, picking up 12 yards, however, on that one try. On defense he made several jarring tackles and was near perfect protecting his pass defense territory.

With Jones, the veteran Bob Cowan and Dean Sensenbaur, who scored two touchdowns in his Brown's debut, the Browns at last appear adequately staffed at their sore-point for the past two years.

The Browns tapered off practice today in preparation for tomorrow night's battle with the Baltimore Colts under the lights in Toledo's Glass Bowl.

Yanks Get Nod In Grid Opener

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—Professional football will make its 1948 metropolitan debut tonight when the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers meet in an All-America Conference game.

The Yankees, Eastern AAC champions in the two seasons of the league's existence, never have lost to Brooklyn.

The Dodgers—with a new coach, Carl Voyles, a new front office headed by Branch Rickey, and several 1947 college All-Americans—are only one-touchdown underdogs.

Local Gridders To Get Tough Workouts Soon

Circleville footballers are to get down to serious business Monday, following their first week of conditioning and toughening up.

Coaches Steve Brudzinski and Tommy Bennett said they expect a complement of between 55 and 60 men to turn out Monday, when the first pad issue is due.

The Red and Blackers have practiced twice daily during the past week in Ted Lewis Park, beginning at 9:30 a. m. and again at 3:30 p. m. However, no more work than limbering up and "run through" plays has been accomplished due to the high temperatures.

Coach Brudzinski said that with the issuance of equipment next week would come work on the tackling dummy and sledges, with a possible light scrimmage lined up near the end of the week.

The coaches have conducted rigorous calisthenics and roadwork conditioners in the mornings of the first week, but the afternoon practices consist of light passing, punting and skull practices.

Racing Pilots All Set For National Tests

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27—Racing pilots from across the nation are winging their way toward Cleveland today where they will compete in the nation's premier air show—the National Air Races.

A total of 106 entries from more than a score of states has been received at race headquarters. The largest number, 37, are entered in the Goodyear Race for midget planes.

The lure—besides fame and glory—is a purse of more than $100,000.

Primary features of the three-day air show, which begins Saturday, Sept. 4, will be the pylon races for planes ranging in size from the Goodyear midgets to 3,800-horsepower Corsairs in the Thompson Trophy.

Other races scheduled are the Bendix Transcontinental Derby from Long Beach, Cal., to Cleveland; the jet division of the Bendix in which six Navy "Furies" will participate, and the Allison trophy for F-84 Thunderjets, from Cleveland to Indianapolis and return.

Women Golfers Bow To Mercury

Thursday's official temperature reading of 99 put the damper on the Pickaway Country Club's women's handicap tournament, which was to have begun at 1 p. m.

Tourney competition which is on a medalist-handicap basis, may be played anytime before next Thursday, according to the postponement regulations.

Playoffs In Both Loops Seen

Tempers Short As Finale Nears

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—If you have the faintest inkling as to which club will win the pennant in either major league you deserve to be fitted immediately for the regalia of a genius.

In just five weeks the races will come to a close—or will they? The end is scheduled for Oct. 3, but a playoff in either or both leagues is a distinct possibility.

Any one of four clubs still can win in the American League and any one of five can take the National.

If any club could put on anything even resembling a winning streak it could wreck the race, but no club seems to have the necessary balance to really dominate the stretch drives.

The pressure is beginning to show. Tempers are short and squabbling frequent among the contenders.

ONE OR MORE Brooklyn Dodgers had a brisk slugging bee in Pittsburgh with a photographer as the latest incident of several in the last few weeks.

In the heat of the race, the managers also sometimes forget the rules, as Burt Shotton did in beating the Pirates by 11 to 9, only to have the final out protested and ordered replayed.

Sotton put in and pulled out a relief pitcher without giving his substitute time to dispose of the hitter at bat when he went into the game.

As a result a game has been removed from the Dodger win column and one from the Pirate loss column.

This may be a vital factor in the pennant race. The playoff is scheduled for Sept. 21 prior to the regular game of that date between the Dodgers and the Pirates.

The Dodgers won the game in Pittsburgh, but may lose it in Brooklyn, when the same setup again will prevail and the Dodgers must make the final out all over again.

The Dodgers will be leading 11 to 9, there will be Pirates on first and third, two out and the count will be 3 and 1 on Eddie Bockman, the Pirates hitter, with Carl Erskine doing the hurling.

Erskine may retire the side on one pitch to Bockman, or he may get his ears pinned back, inasmuch as the two runs needed to tie will be on base and Bockman at the plate will be the winning run.

But whatever may happen, Erskine can't come out of that box until he has retired Bockman or put him on base, or the side has been otherwise retired.

Grand Trapshoot Booked Today

VANDALIA, Aug. 27—Expert trapshooters compete today in the "world series" of trapshooting—the 49th Annual Grand Handicap.

The $5,000 preliminary Grand American trapshooting handicap went yesterday to Ray S. Painter, a 35-year-old farmer from Lomax, Ill. Painter, shooting from the 20-yard handicap line, blasted the clay pigeons for a 99x100 score, and then clinched the prize by getting 50x50 in a five-way shootout.

Mrs. G. A. Roose of Salem won the women's division of the preliminary when she broke 23 out of 25 in a shootout with Mrs. George Fairfield of Reading, Pa. The shootout was from the 18-yard handicap line.

Revamped Rocket '11' All Ready To Meet LA Dons

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—The Chicago Rockets, who many said would never play another game, emerge tonight in better shape than ever before as they help open the All-America Football Conference's third season by hosting the Los Angeles Dons.

The coaches, headed by Ed McKeever, a Texan making his first stab at professional ball after an admirable college coaching career, promise nothing extraordinary. Even a mild success, however, may be considered an exciting triumph in view of the team's past.

They will have their troubles tonight when they oppose the revamped Dons. Headed by Jimmy Phelan, the Los Angeles team comes into the 1948 season boasting no less than 13 ex-All-Americans on its bulging roster.

Most prominent among these is Glenn Dobbs, formerly of the University of Tulsa, whose triple-threat capabilities form the mainspring of Phelan's cagy single wing attack.

The Rockets, on paper, are doing quite well too. Their glaring vacuum at the tackles has been replaced by the likes of All-Conference Nate Johnson (from the New York Yankees) and All-American Ziggy Czaroski (from Notre Dame).

Angelo Bertelli, said by many to be the greatest passer in Notre Dame history and a pupil of McKeever's during the latter's siege of coaching duty at the South Bend school, is ready for work, his bum knee completely righted.

Fayette Pacer Sets New Mark In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27—A young trainer-driver today held five winners of the nine harness races here at the Wisconsin Centennial Fair.

Joe O'Brien returns to the Castleton Farms, Lexington, Ky., after closing the Grand Circuit racing season by winning the five heats.

O'Brien set a new season record when Jerry The First, owned by Burdick and Cobb, of Washington C. H., O., paced a 1:59 2-5 mile to take the first heat of the Big Five Pace.

Jerry The First then took the second heat in 2:00 2-5 to win the event.

Only four heats went to horses that didn't have O'Brien in the sulky.

The driver swept the 22 Pace with Merry Way in two-out-of-three heats for $5,000. Driving a horse from another stable, O'Brien took the Big Five Trot with Vita Lee, owned by Carla Lee De Vries, Norwalk, Calif.

O'Brien only won one heat of the Class 15 Pace. That time he drove War Master, owned by his bosses.

Jones Helping Browns Fill Big Backfield Hole

BOWLING GREEN, Aug. 27—William "Dub" Jones is fast making the Cleveland Browns forget that big hole left in their backfield by the departure to the coaching ranks of Don Greenwood.

Jones was used sparingly in the Browns' 35-20 romp over Buffalo Sunday in Akron, but he appeared reliable offensively and almost brilliant defensively.

He carried the ball but once, picking up 12 yards, however, on that one try. On defense he made several jarring tackles and was near perfect protecting his pass defense territory.

With Jones, the veteran Bob Cowan and Dean Sensenbaur, who scored two touchdowns in his Brown's debut, the Browns at last appear adequately staffed at their sore-point for the past two years.

The Browns tapered off practice today in preparation for tomorrow night's battle with the Baltimore Colts under the lights in Toledo's Glass Bowl.
